HUNGER CURE
FOR KANSAS
MUTINEERS328 Convicts Barricade Selves in the Prison Mine

Lansing, Kas., June 22—(AP)—State penitentiary authorities today ordered the "hunger cure" treatment continued for the 328 convicts who barricaded themselves in the prison coal mine yesterday as a protest against refusal of a clemency issue.

While officials expressed regret that the 14 guards held in the mine by the strikers also would suffer from hunger, they scouted fears that they would be molested.

As the mutineers neared the end of their first 24 hours of self-imprisonment, Deputy Warden Hudspeth gave no indication that overtures would be made.

Meanwhile rebellious factions above ground had abandoned their battle cry—"no clemency, no coal." Inspired by the success of their companions in "capturing" the mine, several score prisoners in B cell house last night started a riot. Although they locked up their guards, they surrendered when extra guards appeared with riot guns and Deputy Warden Hudspeth opened fire with a pistol. A guard was stabbed in the head and a prisoner fell as though wounded when Hudspeth fired.

Criminals were refused and will continue to be withheld on the ground they will increase the fire hazard and provide an easy means of smuggling narcotics into the prison officials announced.

FUGITIVES SURROUNDED?
Houston, Tex., June 22—(AP)—Thirty-five long term white convicts who escaped from the Ferguson State Prison Farm near Madisonville, 80 miles north of here last night, were believed to have been surrounded this morning in the densely wooded Trinity river valley near their camp. Prison guards were reinforced by volunteers. Most of the prisoners were serving long terms. Many were described as desperate characters.

The men sawed through their bunk house and ran to a highway where they started toward a ferry on the Trinity river. Guards turned the fugitives southward before they could cross the river. Dogs aided in chasing the men into thickets along the river. The section through which the chase led is a virtual swamp.

Sarver Case was Tried in County Court Today
The jury for the June term of the county court reported this morning for service, the first case on the criminal docket, in which Louis Sarver is charged with violation of the prison law, being started. It was necessary for Sheriff Miller to summon additional taxsmen this morning to complete the body of 12 which was hearing the case. The case will go to the jury this afternoon.

The jury reported yesterday and were excused for the day, when a hearing was held before Judge Leach concerning the estate of the late E. L. Thorpe of Steward.

Funeral of Mrs. Chas. Risley Held This P. M.
The funeral of Mrs. Charles D. Risley, mother of ex-Sheriff Elliott C. Risley, was conducted from her late home in Compton this afternoon. Burial was to take place in the West Brookline cemetery. Several from here motored to Compton to attend the last sad rites.

"GRANDMA" NUSBAUM IS DENIED NEW TRIAL BY HIGHEST COURT: MUST SERVICE LIFE SENTENCE

Springfield, Ill., June 22—(AP)—Mrs. Eliza "Grandma" Nusbaum was today denied a new trial by the Supreme Court and must serve a life sentence in the penitentiary for complicity in the murder of her aged husband, Albert Nusbaum.

John Walton Winn has already paid the penalty for beating Nusbaum to death with a hammer, December 29, 1925, and was hanged this spring. Winn and Mrs. Nusbaum were tried together and were convicted largely on the testimony of Edward Grant, a teamster who testified the pair had plotted the murder.

Grant told the jury that Winn was not to murder Nusbaum himself, as Mrs. Nusbaum had said that "she could not love him if he had the old man's blood on his hands." Mrs.

Nusbaum denied any knowledge of a plot to murder Nusbaum and appealed from the sentence on the grounds that she should have had a new trial.

The court found that while the record of the lower court was not free from error, "a just conclusion has been reached, founded upon competent and sufficient evidence, after a trial in which no error prejudicial to the defendants rights has occurred."

The court also refuted her contention that "Grandma" Nusbaum "acted under duress and that there was a reasonable doubt as to her guilt."

"The jury," said the opinion, "determined the question of fact adversely to the defendant in error. The evidence clearly supports the verdict."

Slayers of Warden Must Hang July 15

Springfield, Ill., June 22—(AP)—Russell T. Scott, thrice sentenced to hang, was granted a new lease on life today, when the Illinois Supreme Court reversed and remanded his case for a new trial in the criminal court of Cook county.

Directing that Russell Scott be given a new trial, the supreme court said:

"It is apparent that the defendant has not had a fair and impartial trial."

Judge Marcus Kavanaugh was held "incompetent to sit in the case on account of his prejudice" and the jury was also held incompetent because "unduly prejudiced by conduct of the judge and misconduct of the prosecutor."

Into the career which carried Russell T. Scott from the vaudeville stage to business affluence and down a steep descent to robbery and alleged murder, has been crowded melodrama, which mocked the gallows rope for more than fifteen months.

Four times the man who at 30 had headed a $10,000,000 international bridge corporation was sentenced to hang for the murder of Joseph Maurer in a drug store holdup. Three times before his life has been saved within 4 hours of the time set for this execution, once by a governor's reprieve, again by a sanity hearing which averted his execution for more than a year, and once by a supreme court decision to review a second sanity proceeding.

Parents Gained Fight.
Time and again his parents made pilgrimages in his behalf, dissipating their means in his defense. His wife, mother of his three children, starved herself publicly in Detroit to raise funds for his fight. Ten months after the first date set for forfeiture of Russell's life, his brother Robert, accomplice in the fatal robbery, was found and brought to trial, but he failed to bring to Russell the exoneration he had hoped for.

At 20 Scott was an actor, and ten (Continued on page two)

NEW TRIAL IS DENIED THREE STILL IN JAIL
Supreme Court Upholds Verdict of Will County Jury

Springfield, Ill., June 22—(AP)—Three of the seven convicts who beat Deputy Warden Peter Klein to death at the Joliet penitentiary May 5, 1926, were sentenced to hang July 15, "sometime between sunrise and sunset," by the Supreme Court today in denying their appeal for a new trial.

Three breaks for freedom were made by the convicts and one man made good his escape each time. James Price made his get-away the day Klein was murdered. Bernardo Roa vanished when the convicted men broke from the Will County jail last winter and Charles Shadr eluded the guards at the last attempt at breaking jail, June 13. Gregorio Rizo, leader of every escape plot, was killed in the last attempt. Rizo had boasted that he "would never hang."

Walter Staleski, Charles Duschowski and Robert Torrez are the remaining three whom the supreme court has decreed must hang Friday, July 15.

"It would be difficult to conceive a more deliberate and atrocious murder," the Supreme Court's opinion said.

"The contention that there was no evidence of any intention on the part of the plaintiffs in error to use force or violence from which death would ensue, it without merit. Duschowski struck Deputy Warden Klein on the head three times with an iron bar, causing as many skull fractures. Roa stabbed him in the head and Staleski in the groin, and he sufficed other wounds. The evidence clearly shows that all the plaintiffs in error were armed and acted in concert. Anyone of four or five or these wounds, Doctor Fletcher testified, would have caused death, and his testimony was not contradicted."

Verdict is Sustained.
The final contention that the evidence was circumstantial and failed to exclude the hypothesis that the crime was committed by some person other than one of the plaintiffs in error is likewise untenable. The testimony of witnesses is direct, positive and uncontradicted that the plaintiffs in error committed the crime. The verdict of the jury was amply sustained by the evidence.

Jail sentences and fines pronounced against Harry Winnick, business agents for the retail clerks union, Chicago, and others for contempt of court in maintaining a picket line in a strike in October, 1926, were upheld by the court in affirming judgment of Circuit Judge D. E. Sullivan of Cook County.

Singer Loses Suit.
Ernestine Schumann-Heink, singer, today lost her law suit to compel the Good Land Company to pay back money she lost in a land investment. The supreme court held that the company was honest, but like many land ventures at the close of the World War it lost money and became insolvent. The singer invested $15,000 and recovered only $10,000.

Exterior of County Jail is New Color
The exterior of the Lee county jail is undergoing a very noticeable change, painters today completing a very thorough job of repainting. The red color scheme which has decorated the building for several years has been covered with a slate gray with trimmings in white, which presents a very neat appearance. The cell section in the rear with its plaster walls, has been stuccoed and the entire building and garage are new of the same color. The county building committee plans to have a cement driveway constructed in the fall which will replace the old gravel drive, which was practically washed away by last spring's heavy rains.

No Half Holidays in Dixon Stores this Year
The Merchants' Division of the Chamber of Commerce announces the result of an opinion of the retail merchants on the proposal to close Thursday afternoons during July and August as being 50 to 46 against closing at all.

DYSART FUNERAL HELD YESTERDAY AT FRANKLIN GR.
(Telegraph Special Service)
Franklin Grove, June 22—The funeral of Frank Dysart, well known veteran North-Western engineer, who was killed in Chicago last Thursday, was held here Monday, where the remains were laid to rest in the Franklin Grove cemetery. A special car, attached to one of the noon trains, brought the body and almost a hundred relatives and close friends of the deceased engineer from Chicago to Franklin Grove. Accompanying the body was a large delegation of members of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, of which he had been a member for years; officials of the Northwestern; and a delegation of members and officers of Austin Lodge, A. F. & A. M. of which he had been an active member.

The casket was taken from the special car direct to the Franklin cemetery where interment was made. Officers of Austin Lodge, A. F. & A. M., assisted by members of Franklin Grove Lodge, conducted the beautiful Masonic ritual at the grave. Those from out of town who were present at the last sad rites were: James H. Dysart of Chicago; Ray Miller and family of Austin; Guy Dysart of Chicago; Mrs. Carrie Miller of Austin; John Taulin, Mr. and Mrs. George Taulin; Mrs. T. B. Peterson, Mr. and Mrs. George Prentiss, Mrs. Alice Myers of Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Dysart of Belvidere; Miss Lois Dysart of Sycamore; Mrs. Irving Banker of Sycamore; Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Miller of Chicago; and James H. Dysart of Pittsburgh, Pa. A number of relatives and friends from Nachusa and Dixon were also present at the funeral.

Several of the out-of-town relatives were entertained at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Frank M. Ranker at dinner and returned to Chicago in the evening.

Efforts of Legislature to Pass Valid Act are Recalled
The case attacking the primary election acts decided today by the Supreme Court originated here where it was tried in the circuit court of Lee County before Judges Emerson, Heer and Edwards who unanimously decided that the general and legislative primary laws passed in 1910 were unconstitutional.

Five times previously attacks upon legislative enactment of primary laws were contested to the supreme court, which in all instances declared them unconstitutional.

Fight Began in 1904
Strong agitation for a primary law developed in 1904 during the campaign of Deneen, Lowden, Yates, Sherman, Hamlin and others for the republican gubernatorial nomination. Deneen won and was elected and forced through the legislature of 1905 the first Illinois primary law. Under it the first primary election was set for April 1906, but it was declared unconstitutional before the votes were cast.

Governor Deneen, now United States senator for Illinois, immediately called a special session and the legislature passed a new primary law calculated to overcome the previous objections. One election was held under it, but it was stricken by the supreme court in 1910.

Called Special Session
The two acts of 1910 were amended in 1912 to provide a presidential preference primary and otherwise amended in 1913, and in 1915 the supreme court held invalid the section providing for a primary for supreme and circuit court justices.

1920 Law Knocked Out
In 1919, the acts of 1910 were repealed and the primary of 1920 was held under the new act of 1919, but it was declared unconstitutional and the court state that the acts of 1910 automatically were revived.

In the case decided today former Assistant Attorney General G. C. Dixon represented W. J. McAlpine of this city, as complainant in a suit filed against County Clerk Dimick and County Treasurer Eastman, who were defended by State's Attorney Keller with whom Attorney General Carlson joined forces when the defense of the acts was argued in the supreme court.

McAlpine, acting as a tax payer, filed a bill for an injunction asking that the clerk and treasurer be restrained from contracting debts and paying the expenses of the primary of April 13, 1926 alleging that the two Justices Heard and Stone dissented from the majority opinion.

GIBSON CONFERS WITH JAPANESE ARMS DELEGATES
Private Discussion of Divergencies of Disarmament Plans

Washington, June 22—(AP)—The state department today made clear that the American proposals presented at the Geneva arms conference represented the best thought of the administration at this time and that barring the usual concessions of compromise on detail, the plan should be maintained as the basis for any final agreement.

BULLETIN
Washington, June 22—(AP)—The Geneva arms conference represented the best thought of the administration at this time and that barring the usual concessions of compromise on detail, the plan should be maintained as the basis for any final agreement.

Geneva, June 22—(AP)—Hugh S. Gibson, chief American delegate, held a private conversation with Admiral Saito and Viscount Ishii of Japan today on the problems raised by the divergencies between the American, British and Japanese naval limitations projects.

W. C. Bridgeman, first lord of the British admiralty, was unable to attend because of a session of the dominion delegates, but he was to see Mr. Gibson this afternoon. The Japanese delegates told Mr. Gibson that it was difficult to discuss limitation of auxiliary naval vessels in terms of ratio but assured him Japan earnestly desired to reach an agreement and believed one could be achieved if all factors were taken into consideration.

The leaders denied a report that Viscount Saito had notified the American delegate that Japan was unable to accept the 5-5-3 ratio for auxiliaries.

Begin Technical Study
Meanwhile naval experts met to begin a technical study of the three plans.

Representatives of the British dominions discussed the general British attitude in light of the plans submitted to the conference. It is understood Australia and New Zealand are especially anxious that nothing be done here to weaken the growing strength of the Singapore naval base.

Admiral Saito said yesterday he had no intention of raising the Singapore question and Admiral Jellicoe has said that the question of naval bases is not on the agenda.

However, some dominion representatives have been impressed with the American viewpoint that it will be logically difficult to prevent reopening all the problems settled at the Washington conference if the British insist on reconsidering some of them.

Spirit of West is Overtaking Coolidge
Rapid City, S. D., June 22—(AP)—The spirit of the west seems to have overtaken President Coolidge and before he returns to Washington he will have shared in large measure of life in South Dakota.

Not only has he entered eagerly into the activities of the new life surrounding him; he has taken a taste for its clothes as well and to the two ten gallon hats which he wore frequently, there have been added a pair of walking or riding breeches and some boots. In these he likes to go fishing or sit in the early evening on the porch.

Meanwhile, Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge are finding complete rest and diversion. The days are of even temperature and the nights are cool enough to require plenty of blankets. During the day there is fishing for both, with Mrs. Coolidge now initiated to the rod and reel.

OMNIBUS BILL IS BEFORE SENATE: LITTLE CUTTING
Many Amendments Proposed: Appropriations Increased

Springfield, Ill., June 22—(AP)—The state Senate today continued in an apathetic manner its consideration of amendments to the multi-million dollar omnibus bill. At noon more than 110 amendments had been offered, of which about half were passed.

Senator Rodney B. Swift, so called "watch dog of the treasury," had little success with numerous wage slashing amendments. Only one was adopted cutting a $10,000 item in the department of conservation to $5,000.

No intelligent computation of the bill's total was possible with the host of amendments now attached, but the original $60,000,000 has been increased hundreds of thousands of dollars.

To Help Cripples
The only spontaneous outbreak of the day was when a cut in salaries of the vocational rehabilitation department was proposed. A dozen senators rose to deplore any effort at cutting that department's appropriation, declaring it the most worthy of all departments. The amendment lost.

The vocational rehabilitation department concerned with teaching civilians to earn a livelihood, is cooperative with the federal government. Illinois was one of the pioneer states to join in the work.

DECISION LEE COUNTY COURT IS SUSTAINED
Legislative Primary is Also Unconstitutional, Court Holds

Springfield, Ill., June 22—(AP)—The Illinois Supreme Court today in affirming a decision of Judges Edwards, Emerson and Heer in Circuit Court, held the state primary act unconstitutional.

The decision was on an appeal by William McAlpine from the Lee County Circuit Court where the three judges, sitting en banc, held the act unconstitutional.

The township of Dixon had two general election precincts which were changed after the general election in 1924. McAlpine charged in his suit that the law was not clear as to whether committeemen from these precincts had votes at the republican county convention, since the boundaries of their precincts were changed.

New Act Pending.
In the expectation that the court would hold as it did today, a new primary act is now pending in the General Assembly and will probably be speedily pushed to passage. Action on the bill has been waiting the supreme court decision.

The new bill will follow the lines of the present act, with provisions made for changes in precinct boundaries.

Equal and unhampered right of suffrage, the court's opinion held, is denied by the Illinois primary act and it is therefore unconstitutional and void.

Legislative Act Invalid
It further held that the legislative primary election law was "not an independent act and therefore is incapable of standing alone and of being administered and in three unconstitutional."

Continuing the opinion said: "The objection that the suit was prematurely brought is not valid. The object of the bill was to prevent public officers from paying out of funds raised by taxing, expenses not authorized by law. It was proper to bring the suit before the acts sought to be enjoined had been incurred and as soon as it was apparent that the expenses would be incurred and unlawfully paid unless enjoined."

The opinion also held that the provision of section 7, giving employees the right to absent themselves from employment for two hours on election day for the purpose of voting without any deduction from their salaries or wages was also unconstitutional, being a violation of section two, of article two of the constitution.

Byrd Can Only Talk of European Flight Today
New York, June 22—(AP)—Contrary plans of fickle weather off and about Nova Scotia indicated today that the Byrd trans-Atlantic expedition can only talk about flying to Paris today and tomorrow.

Early reports of unfavorable weather suggested that no start could be made today and probably not tomorrow.

The "America" continued in a state of preparedness.

"Columbia's" Pilots in Budapest for Welcome
Budapest, June 22—(AP)—The American trans-Atlantic fliers, Chamberlin and Levine, arrived here this morning from Vienna landing at 10:17.

Chamberlin was presented with a silver loving cup and Levine with a silver laurel wreath by the Hungarian Aero Club. Laudatory speeches were made by the American Minister, J. Butler Wright, the burgomaster of Budapest and the Hungarian minister of commerce.

DIXON MOTORCYCLE COP ASSISTS IN RECOVERY OF BODY OF YOUTH DROWNED NEAR BYRON YESTERDAY

State Motorcycle Officer Kenneth Church of Dixon, assisting Motorcycle Officer Barker from the sheriff's office at Rockford, last evening at 7 o'clock recovered the body of 19 year old Harry Davies of Rockford, who was drowned while in swimming with three companions yesterday afternoon near Byron. Three charges of dynamite had been exploded in a deep hole at Gibbs viaduct, where the young man was drowned in an effort to raise the body, after attempts to recover it by dragging had failed.

Davies and three companions from Rockford drove out to the Gibbs viaduct, about four miles south of Byron yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock to go swimming. He had been in the water but a short time when he sank in a deep hole in the creek before his companions could reach him. The sheriff's office at Oregon was notified and Sheriff Sam Good went to the scene and assisted in the rescue work which continued for four hours before the body was recovered. After the dynamiting had failed to raise the body, the two motorcycle officers continued to work with drag hooks and in this manner the body which was taken to Byron where Coroner J. C. Aiken of Forrester conducted an inquest last evening.

JUNE ROSES BLOOMING NOW

Very beautiful are the June roses now in bloom, and many are the gardens in Dixon where pink, red and white blossoms rejoice the eye. In the Tom Sullivan yard in North Dixon in their garden of lovely flowers is a pink rose, a rambler, most prolific in bloom. Tony Harms has a beautiful white rose and a sturdy fragrant Jaque rose; and on the same street Mrs. Frank Manahan has some sweet pink and white roses and fragrant peonies. Mrs. Sullivan also has the peonies in pink, red and white, most fragrant; the red peony having a number of yellow centers, some of these blossoms growing in the shape of chrysanthemums. Mrs. Bruce Barkley of Morgan street recently sent to friends from her garden a beautiful bouquet of pink and white roses, the white ones being especially lovely, her little daughter, Mildred, being the messenger.

GIRLS IN CAMP AT BOVEY FARM ENJOYING LIFE

Storm of Monday Night Failed to Dampen Their Pleasure

(By Correspondent)
The Y Camp for girls was truly serenaded by a continual storm Monday night. Mrs. Yohn was busy patrolling the camp from one tent to the other trying to keep the girls dry and under cover.

The girls were up a little later than schedule time Tuesday morning, but all ready for camp program. They enjoyed a fine breakfast and then made a dash for K. P. duty. The camp is called "The Builders." Each tent will have a special stone to give for the foundation. This will mean each tent is working hard that its contribution may be worth while.

The editor of the daily camp paper presents the following:
We arrived safely; that is, most of us did, though we hear that the boys were stuck for some time. We came in every kind of a car and with all sorts of luggage. In fact, the baggage was piled so high that there was scarcely room for the campers.

No sooner did we arrive than things began to happen thick and fast. Albert Peterson was the first to fall into the creek; no great damage was done however.

We suppose that the excitement and settling in an excuse for Frances Forsyth's preoccupation. Some of the girls in the tent were talking about frogs in the marsh beside headquarters when Frances suddenly asked: "What were they doing? Were they in swimming?"

Some people expect all the conveniences of home here at camp. For instance, Ruth Weinman wants to be called individually. Harriet Utley would like a spread for her cot. Mrs.

Kiedn asked Mrs. Yohn to turn on the lights. We've heard that several people came here to reduce. Mrs. Cleon is starting in right by chopping wood. Monday afternoon we had a baseball game with a score of 14 to 0.

After supper there were a few out to play horseshoes. The main result of this sport was sore arms and backs. At campfire we sang, told hair-raising ghost stories and had the newspaper read. Then Mrs. Yohn read a short story based on the idea of friendship. We went to our tents early, but not everyone went to sleep at once.

We will probably see Mrs. Yohn walking around on crutches tomorrow as a result of tonight's ball game and the beating her team got.

Women's Section

This morning, while crossing the foot bridge, Dorothy Trowbridge slipped, getting her foot wet and wrenching her back. She was rescued by Mr. Yohn and sent to Dixon by means of the ambulance, which was driven by Miss Pittman and Mrs. Cleon as the nurse. She was taken to Dr. Trowbridge's office and after a treatment she returned to camp feeling fine.

Committees

In order to have regulations in camp the following committees were appointed:

Recreation—Jarlath Jones, Lucille Case, and Elizabeth Hennessy. This committee was organized to take care of the recreational hour.

Campfire Committee—Miss White, Justine Feely, Frances Bills, Grace Minnehan, Margaret Nagle and Frances Bondi.

Newspaper Committee—Eleanor Clayton, Frances Forsyth, Mary Bales, Gladys Stroup and Margaret Minnehan.

Classes

Due to the rain we were late in starting classes, but there was a class in nature study, organized by Mrs. Foreman. There are about twenty enthusiastic botanists in the class, and if any of the members of this class seem to be acting queerly you can be assured that they are only catching or trying to catch specimens for the exhibition which will be held on the thirtieth.

Mrs. Yohn organized a class of nine in campcraft. They are learning to build fires of different kinds, etc.

Sports

Owing to rather damp weather during the first night, sports were limited to horseshoes. Mrs. Cleon seems to be the champion horseshoe pitcher. Everyone is enjoying the swimming.

very much. Group games and baseball are two enjoyable features. The second edition of the "Hammer and Saw," the girls' camp paper, follows:

EDITORIAL All is Well

"Day is done, gone the sun From the lake, from the hill, from the sky,
All is well, God is nigh."

I think we realize that God is nigh when we are in close contact with nature. Here in camp, more than anywhere else, we realize this greatness of the One who created these things. His nearness to us, and His loving care. Surely this realization should inspire in us a deeper feeling of fair play and clean living. Surely the onward course of the stream will make us desire to work on toward our goal: the beauty of the trees to seek loveliness in all things; the tranquility of the sky to find pleasure in peace. When we have discovered these things then we truly know that God is nigh.

Local Briefs

While the entire camp was being entertained by the croaking of the frogs, someone in Tent 2 asked where the baby was crying.

Ruth Weinman worked so hard peeling potatoes on K. P. duty this morning that Mary Bales had to feed her bread as she worked.

Margaret Nagle began her collection of camp pictures this morning at 4 o'clock by taking a picture of the peacefully sleeping Miss Hennessy.

Mrs. Cleon is experiencing some excruciating pains as a result of a baseball game.

Lucia Morris dropped her spoon in the garbage can and was unable to recover it.

The occupants of Tent 3 received a shock when tent suddenly began to leak, and Jarlath Jones and Margaret Nagle had a very hard time in keeping their blankets in their original order while the others used all their efforts to keep from getting wet.

Margaret Nagle coming out of the creek after a dip remarked, "I'm soaked to the skin."

Mrs. Foreman, better known as Miss Cleary, acquired a new name. She is now called the Dutchman because of the likeness of her knickers to Dutchman's breeches.

CHOIR TO HAVE REHEARSAL THURSDAY EVENING

The choir of St. Paul's church will meet for rehearsal Thursday evening at 7:30.

Recital Was Most Delightful Occasion

At eight o'clock on Saturday evening, June 18, the Blocher home in Franklin Grove was the scene of a most enjoyable occasion when Miss Helen Blocher appeared before a company of friends in a piano recital. She was assisted by Miss Margaret Banker, soprano, whose numbers were particularly well chosen and which gave evidence of a wide range of voice and fine sense of interpretation.

In her first group were presented "Morning," by Olek Speaks; "Come Away to Dreamin' Town," by Cadman, and "Down in the Forest," by Landon Donald. "The Wind in the South," was also rendered later in the program.

The presentation of piano selections was representative of the three great schools of composition—Classical, Romantic, and Modern. Miss Blocher first played two inventions by Bach, in which was reflected the spirit of this great leader of beautiful tonal patterns, and his passion for perfection of form. The fineness of touch and clean, crisp tones which Helen exhibited in these numbers are commendable.

"Gypsy Rondo" by Haydn and a group of thirteen sketches by Schumann displayed the shifting of emphasis from the abstract beauty of the classical, to the more personal interest of the romantic school. "Gypsy Rondo" sparkles with gaiety, elasticity and ingenuousness, and its rendering was in accord with these qualities. To Schumann's "Scenes from Childhood" is added the touch of mysticism and poetic fancy so characteristic of the composer. The group represents the changing moods of a child's mind and a fine sense of musical appreciation is required in its study.

Representative of the modern were offered in "Country Gardens," by Grainger; "Arabesque," by Debussy, and "Aragonaise" by Messenet, in which are combined a charming balance of form and expression, intellectual stimulus and emotional appeal.

Miss Blocher is a pupil of Miss Emilie Burnham of Amboy, and the success of this most creditable recital must reflect honor upon the efforts of the latter. Best wishes go to these talented young people of our community for further study and advancement.

Saturday evening, June 25, Miss Blocher will appear in the same recital, at the home of Miss Burnham. She will be assisted by Mrs. Fred Vaughn, Jr.

BACKWARD TRENDS.

Senator Wheeler of Montana is in the Philippines, and there in an address he said he favored immediate and absolute independence for the islands. He was reported further as saying that the people need education more than independence. The dispatch conveying this information was brief, and we are not informed how he wove together these statements.

It may be that his partisanship led to the declaration in favor of independence. That was one of the inheritances of the democratic party from William J. Bryan. The party was in full control of the government for six years, but the Filipinos were not given their independence. About the only result was to encourage the island peoples in the thought that they were near to it, and to give them more rope.

The effect of slackening control is indicated in a recent statement by General Wood, who followed Governor Harrison in administration. It indicates how quickly a people will slip back old ways. Under Spanish rule there were about 40,000 deaths a year in smallpox epidemics. Large hospitals were maintained in Manila to house the victims.

When the United States took control of the islands the preventive measure used in this country were put into effect. The result was that by 1906, or in a period of about seven years, the disease practically had disappeared from Manila and in all provinces where it was possible to use these preventive measures.

Governor Harrison was sent to the islands by President Wilson. He was inclined toward lax administration so far as the United States domination was concerned, and health measures were among those allowed to slip. Rapidity with which a people will go backward is indicated in the handling of smallpox. There was an accumulation of an unvaccinated population. General Wood says that of 813 unvaccinated smallpox patients received in a Manila hospital, 680 died.

Vaccination orders were renewed in 1919. By 1921 there was no smallpox in Manila.

Release of the Philippine islands to their own fate might relieve the United States of great responsibility, but what of the Filipinos?

ROME SETS THE PACE.

You can never tell when Italian Fascist rulers will break out next. They are always doing something novel and unheard of.

Some years ago a New York police chief thought he was clever when he publicly announced that all crooks in New York were not to appear beyond a certain dead line. In other words, the Wall Street district was to be forbidden territory for them.

The chief of police of Rome has beaten that by a couple of city blocks. Recently he convened a meeting of all the known or suspected pickpockets of the city. He lectured them. He told them the tourist season was about to begin and it would harm the fair name of the Italian capital if the strangers within the gates found that their wallets or their time-pieces had been lifted by any of the light-fingered gentry. Then, to show them that he was really in earnest, the chief of police had every one of his guests photographed and finger printed.

The picking of pockets has since then become almost a lost art in Rome. Some of the artists have gone to honest work. Others have moved to other towns where there is more chance for a fellow to earn a dishonest living.

CHARITABLE MILLIONAIRES.

Millionaires comes in for an awful lambasting from envious people not so well off, the main tenor of the criticism being that all millionaires are misers and money-grabbers, and if they were not so, they would not be millionaires.

Perhaps one reason for this belief is the fact that many millionaires are gentlemen. The other day Andrew W. Mellon, many times a millionaire, gave $1000 to the families of Nungesser and Coli, unfortunate French aces who were lost in their attempt to fly to America. The gift was made through the French embassy. Mr. Mellon himself declined to comment.

Beyond a doubt there are hundreds—yes, hundreds—of millionaires who give away thousands with just such modesty every year. They are not braggarts and they keep their gifts and pet charities secret. Mellon's act was gracious, worthy of praise.

EAGLE SCREAMERS PLEASE NOTE.

If the coming Fourth of July does not bring out some unparalleled bursts of oratory, it will not be for lack of oratorical ammunition and gun waddin'. "Our boys," have gone and done it again, meaning of course, Lindbergh and Chamberlin. And just think of it: Chamberlin, when still in the fifth grade, wrote that it was his ambition to fly round in the world in 1930.

This is what the cheer leaders call, "the old spirit." It is something to unfurl the flag about and make the eagle scream as it never screamed before.

He'll not really be famous until they find out his name's not Lindbergh after all.

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KNICK

When Scouty saw just where he was, it frightened him a bit because he wasn't used to riding round in bird's beaks. Not at all. The pelican scoured through the air. Then Scouty got another scare. He saw the ground was far below and feared that he would fall.

To see him was a funny sight. He fit right in the bill alright. Of course you know that Pelicans have a bill of monstrous size. Well, just imagine Scouty's thought when in this big bill he was caught. He figured he'd be swallowed like some bumble bees or flies.

But Mister Pelican was kind. He smiled along and didn't mind that he was taking Scouty on a queetrip through the air. They sailed along till almost night. Till Scouty figured, "I'm all right. I guess I'll take a little nap." And so he closed his eyes.

When he woke up, he shortly found that they were right down near the ground. The bird moved on quite rapidly and skirted through the trees. He'd fly real fast, and then real slow, and Scouty wondered where they'd go. By this time fright had left him and he took the ride with ease.

Then voices rose up from below. "Why, who is calling? Bet I know," said Scouty, and he took one peek, and found that he was right. The Tinymites were on the beach and Scouty plainly heard them screech, "You'd better come on down here now, before the dark of night."

The bird then dropped to beat the band and shortly landed on the sand. It walked up to the Tinymites who gazed at it. And then, it opened up its beak real wide and Scouty promptly stepped outside. And as he greeted all the bunch, he said, "I'm home again."

CIVIC ACHIEVEMENTS

BY DON E. MOWRY
Secretary, the American Community Advertising Association

Congested traffic and the parking problem are probably the two biggest puzzles facing city administrations today. No real solution has yet been found, but it is possible that an experiment being tried out in Troy, N. Y., may be of benefit to many smaller cities.

Troy is trying to solve its parking problem by building a community garage that will hold 400 automobiles. The garage is being built in two units, fifty feet wide, each about 140 feet long. The structure will be thoroughly modern, with staggered floors connected by short ramps. Provision is made for future expansion.

Troy went at this project in a sound manner. A survey was first made by an independent financial organization, to see if the proposal merited support. Finding that the project was a good one, Troy went after its capital and secured pledges for $275,000.

Everything being ready, the contracts were let, and in a short time

SAINT and SINNER

When Bob drew out Faith's chair for her at the daintily set breakfast table the next morning, he stooped and kissed her warm, creamy-white neck, just below the shining loop of brown hair.

"This is something like," he exulted. "Now maybe I can finish a sentence to you without having you jump and run to the kitchen for toast or hot water or any other food thing. And you're going to sit here, do you hear me? Not a single trip to the kitchen for you, young lady!"

"I feel like a lady," Faith smiled at him. "I didn't know I craved luxury until you came along and forced it on me. But we'd better not congratulate ourselves too soon. Her cooking may be terrible."

Jim Lane and Joy came in together. Mr. Lane's hair very wet and slick, his jaw blue-shaven in honor of the servant in the house. Joy's pale little freckled face was shining from soap and water, and she switched her skirts proudly.

"Where's Cherry? Isn't she up yet, Joy?" Faith asked anxiously, one eye on the swinging door through which Mrs. Lundy, crisp in starched gingham and white apron, "Cherry says she wants her breakfast in bed—every morning," Joy answered in her shrill voice.

Faith glanced at Bob hastily, after she had noted the thunder cloud that had settled on Mrs. Lundy's broad, expressive face. Bob's mouth was grim, the fond, happy light gone from his blue eyes.

"Nothing wasn't said about me totting breakfast trays," Mrs. Lundy pronounced darkly as she set the percolator down before Faith with a thump.

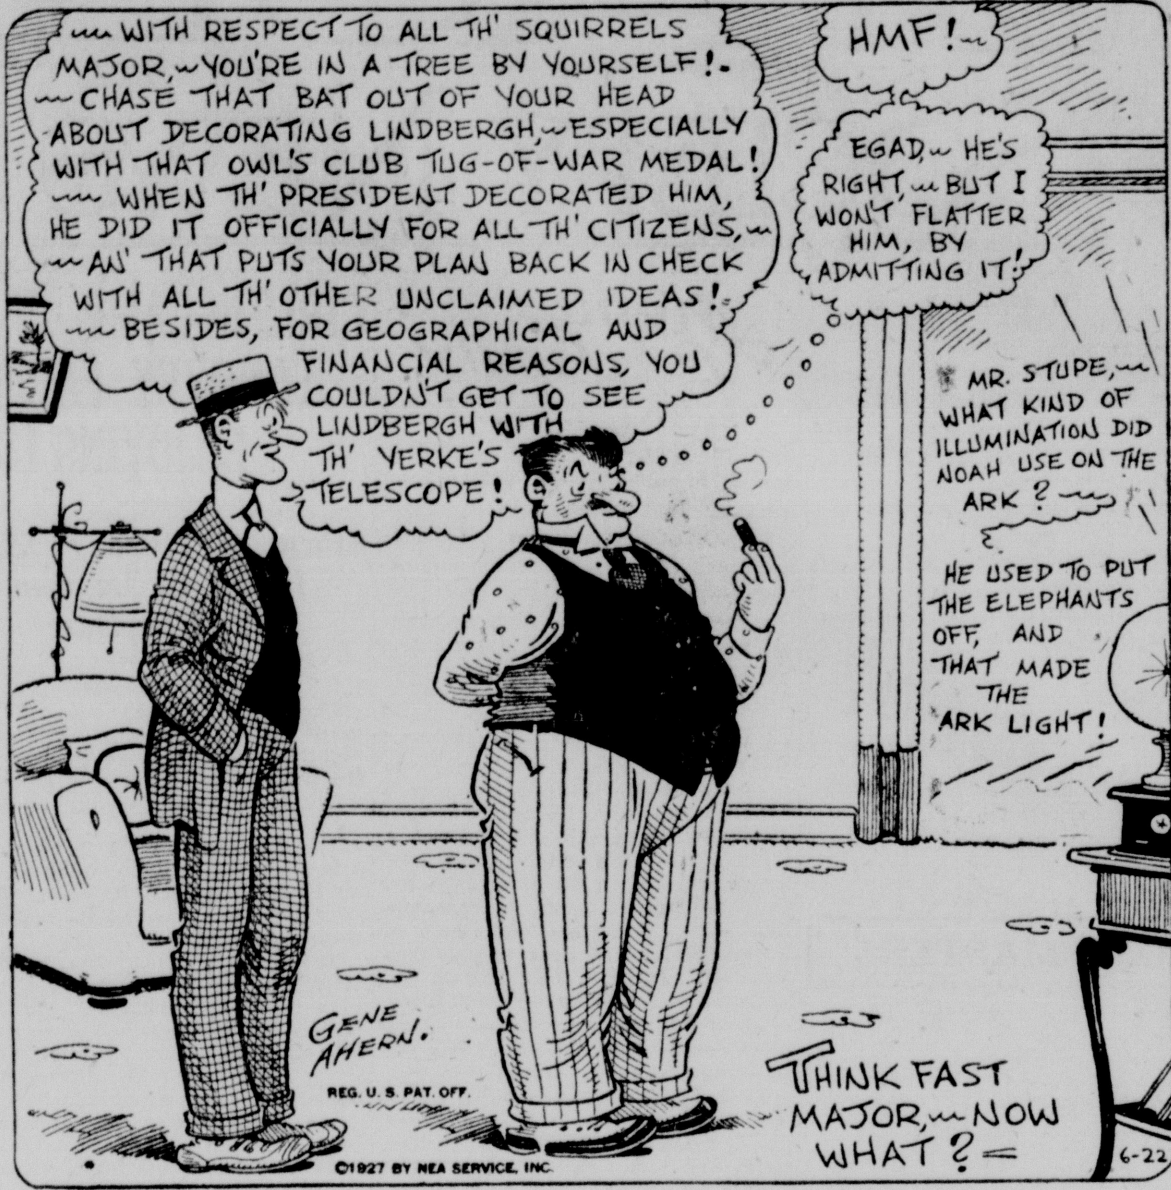

"I'll fix a tray for my sister after we've had our breakfast," Faith said hastily.

"No, you won't," Bob said grimly. "Joy, go tell Cherry that if she wants any breakfast she is to come to the table. And remind her that breakfast will be over in fifteen minutes."

"I made an omelette big enough for all of you," Mrs. Lundy announced suddenly. "I didn't have no instructions on how to fix your eggs. And if two pieces of bacon around ain't enough, I can fry some more."

Faith realized that her servant was left-handedly asking for praise on her first meal in her new job. She reached under the table for Bob's hand, pressed it tightly for a moment, then said, ingratiatingly:

"The breakfast is delicious, Mrs. Lundy. And I never drank better coffee."

"Yes, the coffee's a prize winner, Mrs. Lundy," Bob looked up from his paper and flashed the pleased woman a broad, friendly smile. "And I want you to know we're glad to have you. I hope you'll be happy here."

"Thank you, sir," Mrs. Lundy beamed. "And you, ma'am. It's just that I can't stomach the notion of totting breakfast trays to folks less than they're sick," she added, by way of apology.

"Cherry's going to have a baby and she things everybody's got to wait on her," Joy shrilled, unable to bear the idea of being left out of the conversation. "She says she ain't coming to breakfast, she'll do without first."

"Good land! I didn't know that!" Mrs. Lundy wheeled toward the door. "I'll fix her up something right away. Poor little chick. And her so young and all! Tchik-tchik!"

When Mrs. Lundy had disappeared into the kitchen, Faith looked at Bob and broke into a tremulous laugh. "Someone else to spoil Cherry, darling!" he said.

BOY SCOUTS CAMP AT LYNDON TO BE VERY BUSY PLACE

First of Five Weekly Re-lays Start Outing on Monday

George C. Driesbach of Rockford, Scout Executive of the Black Hawk Area Boys Scouts of America, is at Lyndon, Whiteside county, this week looking over the Scouts camp there which some Dixon Scouts will attend.

Sixty boys are now in camp from the scout troops at Freeport, Oregon, Mt. Morris, Dixon, Morrison and Sterling.

There will be five periods in the duration of the Lyndon camp, each period to take care of a different group of Boy Scouts for one week. These scouts will be from Rockford, Freeport, Rochelle, Ashton, Franklin Grove, PawPaw, Compton, Amboy, Dixon, Polo, Forreston, Oregon, Mt. Morris, Sterling, Morrison, Prophetstown, Lyndon, Fulton and Tampico. Freeport has the biggest representation in camp this week, with 25 boys taken from that city in cars by members of the Kiwanis club.

The Rockford boys who will camp later will be scouts from that city who have selected the Lyndon camp in preference to the Rotary camp on Kishwaukee river near Rockford, which will take care of 200 boys at a time during two 10 day periods, from Aug. 2 to 20. The same staff of Scout officials in charge of the Lyndon camp will have charge of the Rockford camp later.

Eight Camp Officials. Einar Anderson of Rockford is director in charge of the Lyndon camp. He is a graduate of the University of South Dakota and of Northwestern University, has traveled abroad and was for six years the counsel of the Y. M. C. A. boys' camp at Lake Geneva, Wis. He is scout master of a Rockford troop of 45 boys who made the highest standing for efficiency in competition with 50 Boy Scouts.

Albert Driesbach of Rockford, brother of the area executive, is the waterfront man at the Lyndon camp. He has passed the standards of the American Red Cross senior grade life saving tests and has the medal awarded for passing the tests. Amos Horton of Ohio Wesleyan University at Middleton, Ohio, is the morale officer of the camp. He has charge of the camp fires, stunt nights, minstrel shows and various contests.

Paul Former of Notre Dame University, South Bend, Ind., is in charge of camp craft activities, including the making of badges, bead work, leather belts, totem poles, wood carving and similar craft work.

Allen Spangberg, an Eagle Scout of Rockford, is in charge of camp athletics.

Edward Smith, Jr., of Morrison, scout master, is general assistant to the camp staff, and George Buffin of Freeport, scout master and principal of the Freeport Junior high school, is also an assistant to the camp staff.

Motor Bus Trip. Scouts from the U. S. Grant area, with headquarters at Stockton, Jo Daviess county, will send Scouts to the camps at Lyndon and Rockford. Freeport belongs to that area, which includes Stephenson county as well as Jo Daviess.

First class scouts who have the money to pay expenses will take a motor trip, starting July 19 from Rockford, and going 1,500 miles through scenic Wisconsin points to Iron Mountain and Houghton, Mich., and returning by way of Milwaukee and Chicago. Sixty boys will go in two big buses.

Camp Schedule. The Lyndon camp has the following equipment: Central electric light plant, central water plant, large airy messhalls, large sleeping quarters, shower baths, new concrete

Lodge News

Flag Pole and Flag Presented to Masons

Two very fitting gifts of Dixon business men, members of the local Masonic bodies, were formally accepted Monday afternoon just prior to the laying of the cornerstone for the Brinton Memorial Masonic Temple. A 50-foot steel flag pole, donated by Otto Witzleb, plumbing contractor, and welded by Claude Horton had been stationed in front of the building. Just before the cornerstone laying officers of the Illinois Grand Lodge presided at the flag raising.

A fine woolen flag, a present from Adolph Eichler, who is a member of several of the Dixon Masonic bodies, was unfurled and raised to the top of the steel pole while "To The Colors" was sounded by a member of the Commandery drum and bugle corps.

Templars Grand Officers Plan Visit to New York

Glen F. Coe, grand commander of the Grand Commandery, Knights Templar of Illinois, and Lew E. Edwards, grand prelate, will leave Dixon Friday for New York City. The Illinois Grand Commandery officers from this city will drive to Chicago where they will be joined by the remainder of the Grand Commandery officers and proceed by motor to New York City, where they will participate in the annual convocations of the Grand Commandery of New York.

State Pavement Bursted by Heat

Geneseo—Heat was almost unbearable in this vicinity Monday. In one case it was unbearable. Paving on Route 7 about 2.5 miles east of Geneseo, stood the hot sun to the breaking point and then broke. Force exerted was sufficient to bend the reinforcing irons at right angles.

It is said that the hind wheels of a car were just passing over the weak spot when the break occurred. The "explosion" caused the car to swerve violently, but no one was injured.

The quota of the United States National Guard calls for 174,889 men.

Co-Op Elevators of Mid-West Kept Busy

Chicago, June 22—(AP)—Nearly a billion bushels of grain are handled annually by the 5,000 farmers co-operative elevator companies of the Farmers Grain Dealers Association functioning in eleven surplus grain states, the American Institute of Co-operation learned today in an address by Lawrence Farlow of Bloomington.

The farmers co-operative elevator company idea, he said, expanded from a desire of a few Iowa farmers nearly 25 years ago, to improve their local grain market.

Today, more than half a million farmers own stock in nearly 5,000 concerns whose elevator property is valued at $100,000,000. At least a million grain producers are served by the organization which does about $200,000,000 worth of business in farm supplies as a side line each year, he said.

Petition Congress for Pension for Chaplains

Omaha, Neb., June 22—(AP)—Urging congress to pension chaplains disabled in the World War, appointing a committee to translate its constitution from Swedish to English and refusing to grant a petition asking that women be admitted to the governing board, the 63rd annual Augustana Lutheran Synod closed last night.

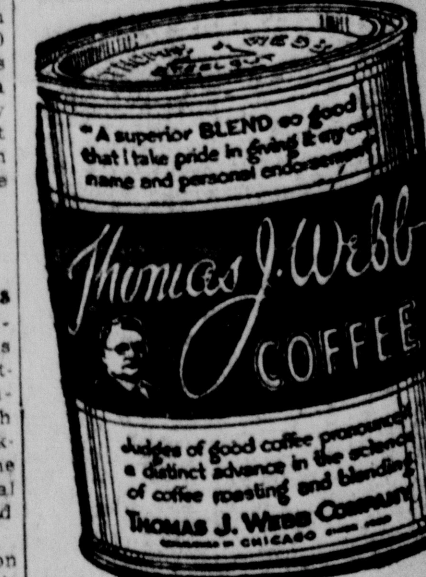

A desire for closer cooperation with other denominations was evidenced when the Synod voted to be represented on a committee composed of Lutherans, Methodists, Baptists and Evangelical mission covenant, to prevent overlapping of work. Rev. Dr. P. A. Mattson, and Dr. C. G. Erickson urged support of the Swedish tercentenary celebration, planned for 1928 at Wilmington, Del., where the first Swedish colonists landed in 1638.

THE PRESIDENT, THE FIRST LADY AND A FEW BLACK HILLS TROUT

Mrs. Coolidge soon will know as much as the guides about the winding trails in the Black Hills. The first lady takes daily hikes of five to seven miles. She meets many tourists along the highways and often graciously consents to pose for their cameras. Mrs. Coolidge is shown here pointing to one of the mountains that she means to climb as soon as she has become more familiar with her surroundings.

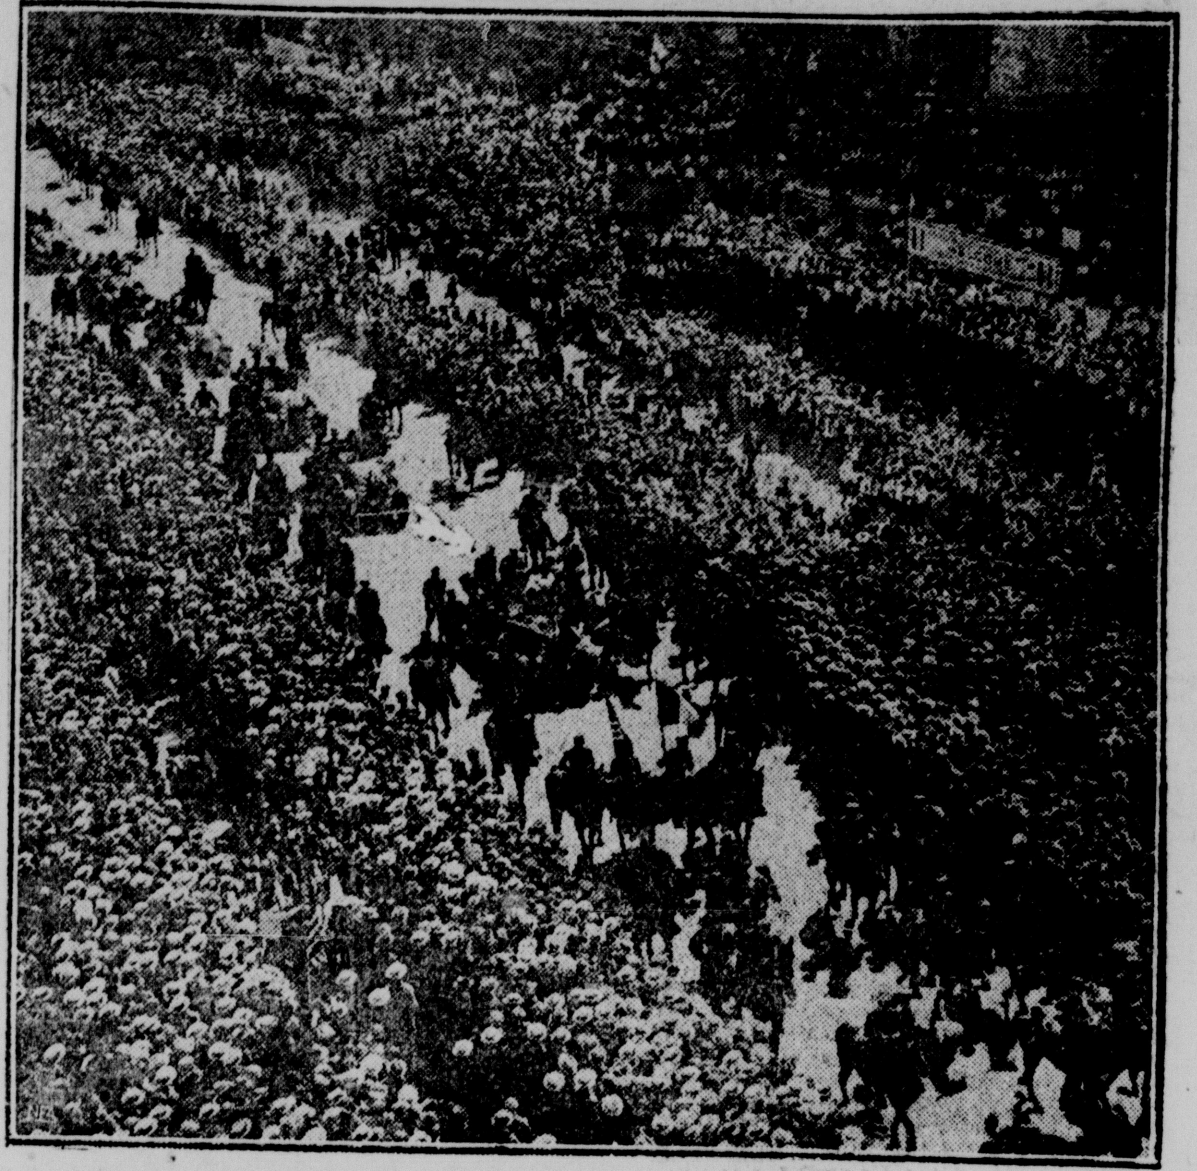

President Coolidge here is girding himself for an attack upon the finny tribe. The president's success at Paul Smith's last year bodes no good for the wigwag trout with which the Dakota waters abound.

Daddy's bringing home a fish here that Mrs. Coolidge can "fry in the pan." The President proudly is showing two of the rainbow trout he caught in his first tussle with Black Hills streams. "Rob Roy" is eyeing the catch suspiciously, while "Prudence Prim" laughs it off. Guides praised the nimrodship of the President, who is a "patient waiter."

A HERO'S TRIUMPH—THE GREATEST HUMAN EYES EVER SAW

The wistful expression that was on "Slim" Lindbergh's face as he rode for miles through billowing fumes of cheering New Yorkers is shown in the upper picture. "Slim" was lonely! Besides him is Mayor Walker. For the white-clad New Yorker in the lower photo, "Lindy's" coming meant no holiday—only more work! The faster he swept, the faster the confetti and ticker tape cascaded.

Radio vs. Electric Chair

An unparalleled use for the radio was Mrs. Frank Caruso's appeal from a New York broadcasting station for aid in her struggle to prevent the electrocution of her condemned husband. He was convicted of slaying the physician he regarded as responsible for his son's death. Before the mike here, you see Mrs. Caruso and her daughter, Lena.

It's Different When 15 Loves 48

Marriage for most girls of 15 is the bunk, says Mrs. Cora Smull, of Reading, Pa. But when love comes tripping along, as it did for her in the form of her 48-year-old husband, Lester, that's a horse from a different garage. "I'm the exception," she maintains. "Most girls don't know their minds at 15. But I know I love Lester and he loves me. That's different!" Lester, affectionately posed with his bride here, is a fireman.

Goin' to Build It

That construction of the 110-story Larkin Tower in New York is ultimately to prove more than a vision was indicated by recent official approval of the building plans. Its 1200 feet will make it the world's tallest structure.

Decorative, and It Wards Off Colds!

Simply braid the hair and wind it around the neck, fastening it in the back with hairpins and setting it off with a decorative pin in front. That's Dolores Del Rio's new style hint. The Mexican film beauty's fad has become popular in Hollywood, even though the weather's warm.

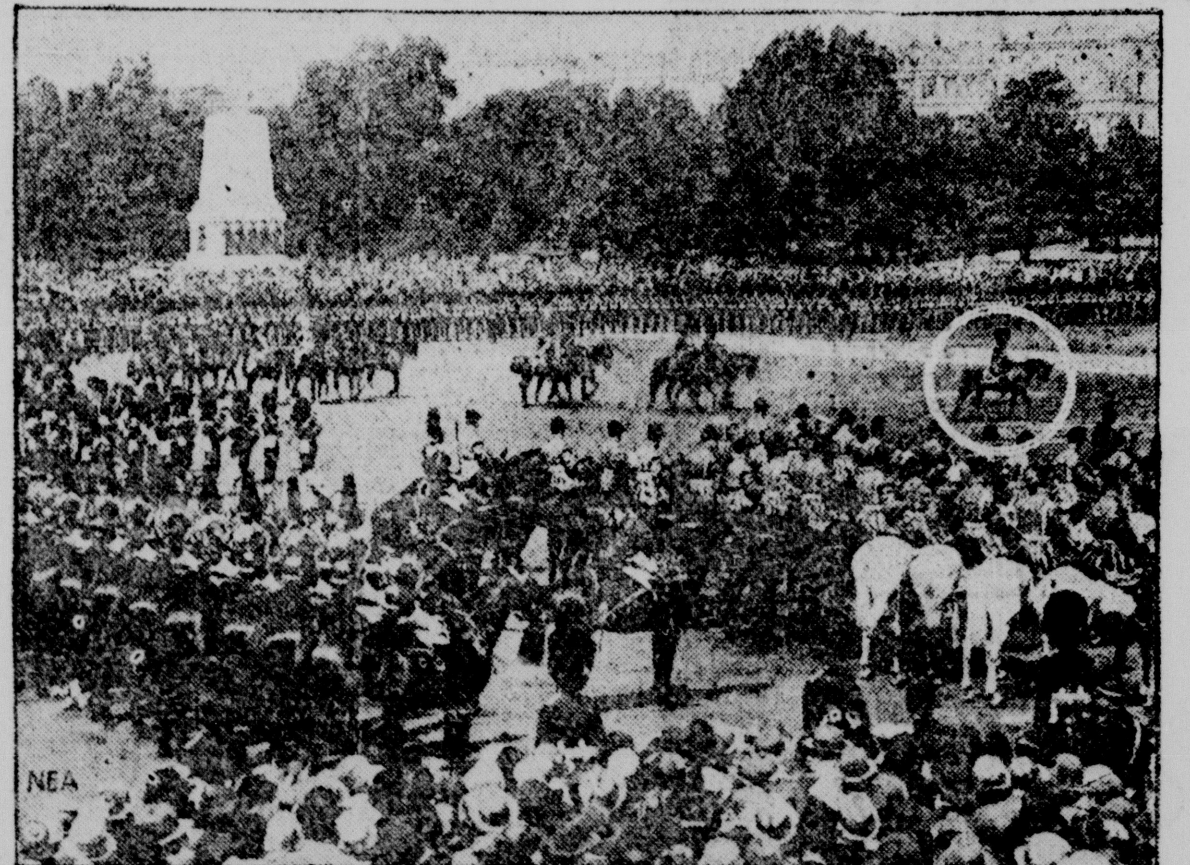

Back in New York from his flight to Paris, 25-year old Charles A. Lindbergh was acclaimed more stupendously than was any other single individual in all human history. But he went through it calm, unruffled, unperturbed.

At the left is Fifth Avenue as "Lindy" viewed it. Perched atop the rear seat of an open car, with Mayor Walker of New York at his side, the flyer gazed out tranquilly over a thundering sea of faces that were as countless as the cheers they chorused. The photographer was looking down Fifth Avenue from Forty-second Street.

At the upper right are Governor Al Smith and "Lindy" on the platform in Central Park where, in the presence of another surging multitude, Governor Al Smith bestowed on Lindbergh New York State's medal for valor. Below, a girl hero worshiper is typifying the New York spirit of the day with a dash to escape police lines and see the city's honor guest at close range.

Ta-da, Ta-da, Boom-de-ay on King George's Anniversary

Great Britain turned out in all its military splendor at London to celebrate King George's 62nd anniversary, as graphically pictured here. See the shalooned Monarch (circle) riding across the Horse Guards Parade Ground after inspecting the brightly uniformed cavalymen, mustered to troop the colors in his honor.

St. Louis Cardinals and New York Yankees today had double headers to thank for boosting them onward two games in the baseball chase.

By downing the Cubs 6-5 and 12-3, the champion Cardinals passed them and became runner-up to the Pirates. By dropping a 7-6 decision to the Reds, Pittsburgh lost a few precious points.

Injury to Tommy Thevenow, crack Cardinal shortstop, marred the Red Birds' day. Sliding into second in the second game, he suffered an ankle fracture which may keep him off the field all season. The first game went 13 innings.

Even though back home in the east, the Giants lost to the Braves 7-5. Two homers came from the Boston catcher, Frank Hogan, a rookie.

Pressing the Giants closely, the Robins in fourth place continued their rise by dropping the Phillies 7-3.

The Yanks' victories, scored over the trailing Red Sox 7-3 and 7-1, shoved them ahead farther than ever in the American League. As the White Sox were idle and the Senators and Athletics split a double bill, none of the rivals gained.

Walter Johnson lost his third game in four starts when the Athletics took his measure 5-2 after his mates had won the first game 5-4.

NOTES:

Pinelli, Cincinnati Reds' infielder, is going back to the minors. He was released outright to the San Francisco, Pacific Coast League club.

Lu Gehrig is giving the home run king of the majors a merry chase this season. Ruth has collected 22 and Gehrig 18.

Dazzy Vance of the Robins whiffed nine Phillies, while allowing only five hits.

Paul Waner's hitting streak in 23 consecutive games was stopped by the Reds' twirlers yesterday.

Home run clouting by the Cubs and Cardinals kept the fans on edge in the first game of their sea saw thrilling 13 inning battle. The score was tied no less than four times.

Irish Hearts

By MOLLIE MALONE

Copyright 1927, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.
"IRISH HEARTS," with May McAvoy, is a Warner Bros. picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS
Sheila Kildare and her father emigrate to America to follow Emmett Murtough, to whom she is betrothed. Neither Kildare nor Murtough hold steady jobs and Sheila works as a waitress. Her only friends are the family of Rory O'Shea, a professional boxer, whose kindness interests her. Murtough belongs to a rural bootlegging gang the hiding place of $150,000 contraband. A chorus girl plans to double cross him out of his reward which was to have been $5,000.

"You'd never get any place with Clocker except driving a car and there's no money in that. At least not enough to buy what your little sweetie wants to have. You'll have to make a lot of money, Big Boy, after we're married, but we two can work together. I got a real bright mind, you know."
"You sure have," agreed Murtough, infatuated with her flattery. "When we get it all set and straightened out," she went on, "we'll hop out to Detroit. I got some friends out there. I got some friends in Chicago, too. They'll all help put us in right and we'll be getting big money before long. All anyone needs is the capital to start and what with five grand in our kick we'll be all set. You sure pulled it off fine! And we'll have our last blowout at the West End Dance, won't we, Big Boy, right under the nose of Mammie Clocker and his whole gang."
"Hadn't we better cut out the dance?" suggested Murtough. "It looks dangerous to me."
"Don't be a simp. Who knows you had anything to do with this, and besides, who's going to wise up Clocker that the raid is going on, until it's over. Them babies you was dealing with aren't going to let none of the Clocker crowd down there get to a telephone, you know."

"But I don't care much about hanging around."
"We'll go, Big Boy, and I'm going to look my best, so let your sweetie have enough for a new party dress. I want to buy it this afternoon after I get my beauty sleep."
Murtough counted out some bills and gave them to her. Clarice spied three remaining twenty dollar bills.
"Let me have a couple of more, Big Boy. I need shoes and stockings, too. A twenty will get us out from under this check all right."
Murtough frowned, but he passed the money to her and she slipped the remaining bill into his vest pocket. Clarice was certainly an expensive person, he thought.

CHAPTER XII
The West End Club Dance
Sheila sang with joy as she hustled about the flat making ready for the dance at the West End Club. Not only did she have her own pretty self to primp and make more beautiful, if that could be possible, but there was Old Tom to help. His fine, old broadcloth long coat, turned a bit green with age since the days when it was cut for him by the traveling tailor from Dublin who visited Killanmaul every two or three years, had to be brushed and made ready and the buttons put in his Sunday boiled front and shirt and all that Sheila did not mind this night.
A new dress and stockings and shoes had been purchased and even Emmett, in spite of all his entangling adventures, had not forgotten a corsage of flowers. Every once in a while Sheila stopped in the midst of her preparations to run to the stand and smell the precocious bouquet. It would be her first big party, the first ball that she ever had attended in all her twenty years. And how she loved Emmett for escorting her to this proud affair, where she would meet the people who were his fine business friends!
It was after ten when Emmett, dressed in a tuxedo that fitted so snugly that the biceps in his huge arms stood out, arrived. He had spent an hour with the barber; his face had been shaved to satin softness and his hair sleeked to his head until hardly a ripple of the wave in it showed. Certainly Emmett was a fine figure of a man and a very proper representative in this new country of Killanmaul, thought Sheila. She kissed him gratefully upon the cheek for his flowers and if Emmett blushed it was absorbed in the flush of his own face due to the hot towels of the barber.

"Ah, Emmett," she cried, "I am so happy tonight! To think that you and me and father are all going together to this grand affair. 'Tis lovely of ye to take us, so it is, Emmett Murtough, an' I love ye fer it."
Emmett made no reply. He was in a silent mood. Too many confusing thoughts ran through his mind to permit much of the boasting badinage that usually marked his treatment of Sheila, even when in a gentle humor.
"Well, 'tis a happy father I am the night," Old Tom added to Sheila's thanks. "What with ye taking yer rightful place among the big-wigs an' dressed as good an' grand as the next one, I'm thinking, an' you an' Sheila having patched it up, 'tis indeed an' indeed happy I am."

"Sheila will be the queen of the ball, I'm thinking," said Murtough in an effort to join in the spirit of the occasion. "My, but 'tis a pretty girl ye are!"
"None of yer blarney now," cried Sheila but more than pleased at the compliments of her lover. "An' there'll be many a prettier girl there that'll be wishing to know who I'm with," she added.
"I couldn't see any of them, blinded as I am with you, Sheila, darling."
The assembly room at the club from which all furniture had been removed for the dancing was festooned gaily. Flags of America and the Irish Free State were intertwined and hung at every conceivable place and bunting draped all the four walls. An orchestra was hidden behind palms and ferns and a spotlight played from one corner, while other corners from it was a projector of different colors to be used when the dances were on. The clubrooms downstairs were thronged when Murtough and Kildares arrived. A committee of club officials greeted every comer and Murtough met men whom he never had so much as seen before. Sheila was presented to everyone and men from all over the hall flocked to be introduced to her.

Her modesty and fresh prettiness, straight from the "ould sod" as one patriarch said, appealed particularly to the elderly men and women. In her they saw the old fashioned girl, with long hair, and with becoming blushes at their compliments, and they loved her for it. These older men did not prove so much of their children and grandchildren who had clipped their fine tresses and who depended upon rouge and lip stick for their healthy appearance instead of fresh air and sunshine which has made the cheeks of Irish colleens famed the world over for their beauty.

Mr. and Mrs. O'Shea were among the first to recognize and greet her and it was through them that Sheila was presented to a score of the heads of the fine old Irish families whose sons were now famous for their accomplishments. Rory was not with his father and mother when Sheila arrived. He had joined some of the younger men of the club and was dancing away the time watching the dancers. It was on the ballroom floor that he caught his first glimpse of her. Emmett and Sheila were dancing and as she recognized Rory she waved to him and smiled at him around the heavy set Murtough.

At the end of the dance Murtough escorted her to the chairs occupied by the O'Sheas and Old Tom Kildare.
"I must leave ye now for a little while," he told her. "'Tis some business for the club, for the good of the party," he explained.
"Don't be gone long, Emmett, an' she hesitated and drew him down to her, "ye won't be drinking the night?"
"Of course not," he answered, but there was the old surly tone in his voice. The smile faded from his face as he disappeared in the crowd. Soon she was laughing and talking, however, and when Rory came to her for the next dance she was a sparkle with gaiety. At the end of the dance Rory asked if she would go downstairs for lemonade and she accepted.
They made their way through the crowd to the stairs and pushed their way through a greater crowd below until they stood near the refreshment stand. Rory obtained cool drinks and as Sheila lifted the glass to her lips she spied Emmett and with him was a girl whom she never before had seen.

Igoe May Tie Up House Sessions

Springfield, Ill., June 21.—(AP)—Settled once before, the question of complying with established rules in calling bills on the calendar reared its head in the House again today, and unless Representative Igoe, Chicago, recedes from his stand, tonight's session will witness renewal of tire-some roll calls.
With that rule enforced it is conceded to be impossible for the House to finish its work by the end of the present week as had been planned.
Speaker Scholes had steered the day's session smoothly along, calling up only Senate bills on second reading and the morning meeting was well on the way to adjournment when the Lant-Deck-Sneed income tax bill was called. This is a measure to which Chicago members have registered serious objection.

It brought Representative Igoe to his feet with a hot denunciation of the bill and the request that the rule on calling bills be enforced. This would mean a roll call on each of 51 bills now on third reading.
BIG INDUCEMENT
HE (proposing): I've saved up enough money to live at the rate of five thousand a year.
SPE: Have you?
HE: Yes; for about three months—Till-Bits.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

Attempts have been made on the life of ELISE MARFERRY, an American girl who owns and lives on property adjoining the queer little jungle-bordered town of PORTO VERDE, in west central Brazil.

Several mysterious deaths have occurred, including that of one of her foremen. Her two-year-old orphaned nephew is kidnapped but is found again, largely through the efforts of VILAK, her cousin and protector, who is known in Porto Verde as ATTORNEY DAVIS. Elise's lawyer, Vilak has sent for LINCOLN NUNALLY, elderly American chemist, to help him, set at the bottom of the mystery.

They are ignorant of the cause of this hostility toward Elise but suspect that a man named GAY-LORD PRENTISS, a reticent and forbidding character, is somehow involved.

Word is brought to Elise that the manager of her property at VILAK is desperately ill and must see her at once. Vilak suspects a trick and insists that he must see her at once. Vilak suspects a trick and insists that he must see her at once.

On the road to Villapa they are ambushed by a band of ruffians in

CHAPTER LXVII

At one of those brass-rimmed, round-topped tables in Paris on the sidewalk in front of a cafe near the church of St. Augustin in the Boulevard Malesherbes for a sit and a sip. Just as the Legionnaires will sit this September.

"Pam! Pam! Pam!" The incessant horns of the incessant taxicabs—a two-wheeled cart passes belonging to the Societe du Gaz du Paris and a sign tells the cock-eyed world that the institution sells coke on detail.

The awning flaps lazily. A blue-caped gendarme on the corner looks the situation over seriously and seems to be quite pleased with it. He should be... why not? Parisians carry brief cases, too, just like in New York or Neenah, Wis.—a street car passes on line No. 37 to Neuilly bearing many advertisements of "Kub" and "Kub" is a bouillon cube, and not so very good either, according to those who have melted down a few.

"Encore, garcon, Encore!"

Drive the wonderful Chrysler 70 and appreciate its great reputation

We can recite to you the advantages of Chrysler "70's" speed of 70 miles plus, its astonishing pickup of 5 to 25 miles in 7 1/4 seconds.

We can tell you what its scientifically balanced 7-bearing crankshaft and impulse neutralizer contribute toward its greater smoothness; how much more comfortably you ride because of its low chassis design, its unique spring suspension and its shock absorbers; how much more easily it handles because of its pivotal steering gear; and how much safer you feel because of its four-wheel hydraulic brakes.

But the real way for you actually to discover these things for yourself is to learn them today in an extended test over all sorts of roads, through all sorts of traffic, with you doing the driving.

We gladly accord you the opportunity for such a demonstration.

Too Much "Acid?"

Excess Uric Acid Gives Rise to Many Unpleasant Troubles.

AUTHORITIES agree that an excess of uric acid is primarily due to faulty kidney action. Retention of this toxic material often makes its presence felt by sore, painful joints, a tired, languid feeling and, sometimes, toxic backache and headache. That the kidneys are not functioning right is often shown by scanty or burning passage of secretions. Thousands assist their kidneys at such times by the use of Doan's Pills—a stimulant diuretic. Doan's are recommended by many local people. Ask your neighbor!
